

This heatmap shows the model's output for the 'C' variable. The color scale ranges from dark blue (low values) to red (high values). The highest values are concentrated in the 'C' category, with a prominent red square indicating a high output value.